Upon arrival to the resort, couples are greeted by the wedding concierge team and then turned over to the hands of their very own wedding butler who takes care of every detail on the big day. The wedding butler makes sure that everyone is kept on schedule, takes care of any last minute needs such as securing cuff links for the groom or facilitating a quick dress hem. In addition, the butler makes sure the parents of the bride and groom are comfortable, ensures that all the guests are directed to the wedding venue and delivers the gifts to the appropriate location.

Whether the big day is an intimate affair or boasts a guest list of several hundred, the resort features venues for every wedding size. With its 14-foot ceilings and elegant interiors, the Richard Henry Dana Ballroom can accommodate a reception of up to 600 guests. However, for brides and grooms who have a smaller gathering in mind, the beautiful Lantern Bay Ballroom provides an alluring venue for more intimate wedding day celebrations. Couples who want to take their vows with the Pacific Ocean as their picture-perfect background can take advantage of the resort's three outstanding outdoor venues with one-of-a-kind ocean views, accommodating up to 800 guests. The resort's fresh sea breezes, lush foliage and ocean views serve as the ultimate setting for an outdoor event.

From a refined white glove sit-down dinner to festive buffet station dining, a delicious meal is always the perfect accompaniment to a celebration of love. The resort's creative catering team is on hand for every step of the wedding planning process--from helping couples to select the perfect menu to expertly preparing the meal and graciously presenting the delicious offerings to wedding guests.
